I looked for my purpose I craved direction You gave me my heart's Desire

But How different Things could have been If I had craved to love As you love